When I think of new media art I don't know what to think it just makes me think of any digital art trend that can classify as new media. The practice of new media is something that I value less than traditional art. I like to see how much the different practices can challenge my thinking to think as if-oh! That's kind of cool. I am open to new art practices but I am just wary of if I will continue it. From this paper I struggle a lot since I am not so keen on the topic of new media but as this class is a topic on new media I am willing to learn it. I do enjoy the topics taught in class but I'm just wary of the material since I do not 100% agree with all of them but I will do my best to learn it. I am looking forward to the HTML section because I remember I was in middle school after school and that's where I briefly learned some but I forgot everything. I wonder if I can pick up anything I forgot fast since I don't remember anything I've done.
